

	State accepts property with last known address in another state	State allows out-of state holders to remit property to holder's home state	Accepts NAUPA format files	Property types accepted for exchange				COMMENTS
				Accounts representing cash	Stocks and bonds	Mutual Funds	Safe-keeping
AL	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓	Alabama liquidates securities upon receipt. Therefore, when exchanging to other states, sale proceeds will typically constitute property exchanged to other states. Alabama does accept, as noted, unclaimed property in all forms (assets, securities, and safe deposit contents) as provided by law.
AK	Yes, but the majority of property should be for Alaska	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓
AZ	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓
AR	No, however, property accepted inadvertently will be forwarded to the state to which it belongs.	No
CA	No, due to unique California owner notice requirements, property remit due dates are now later than other states. Property inadvertently remitted to California will be forwarded to correct state annually.	No, unique California owner notice requirements cannot be met if property is remitted to another state.	✓	✓
CO	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
CT	Yes, without limitation. However, holders are strongly encouraged to report to the correct state	Yes, as long as that state reciprocates or exchanges with CT	✓	✓				Connecticut has recently updated our computer system and has had a change in management. Connecticut will be exchanging property with other states starting in late summer/fall - 2008
DE	STATE DID NOT PROVIDE INFORMATION
DC	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓
FL	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓	✓	✓	Yes, if converted to cash
GA	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓	✓	✓

	State accepts property with last known address in another state	State allows out-of state holders to remit property to holder's home state	Accepts NAUPA format files	Property types accepted for exchange				COMMENTS
				Accounts representing cash	Stocks and bonds	Mutual Funds	Safe-keeping
HI	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
ID	Yes, incidental properties only	Yes, incidental properties only	✓	✓	✓	✓		10 or fewer properties valued at $1,000 or less
IL	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
IN	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓
IA	No, however, property accepted inadvertently will be forwarded to the state to which it belongs.	Only in cases where the owner's last known address is unknown. IA asks that property be remitted to the state of last known address.	✓	✓	✓	✓		State's policy is to not accept property due other states. When property is reported to the state which is due another state, holders are advised to send out of state property to the other state.
KS	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓		Property types accepted depend on other states' requirements
KY	Yes, but must be on diskette	Yes, if the state reciprocates	✓	✓
LA	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓
ME	Yes, incidental property from Maine holders	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓	✓	✓
MD	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓
MA	Yes, without limitation, per agreements reached between the states.	Yes, without limitation, per agreements reached between the states.	✓	✓
MI	Yes, without limitation	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
MN	Yes, only incidental property, if more than incidental then holder will be directed to report directly to that state	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
MS	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓

	State accepts property with last known address in another state	State allows out-of state holders to remit property to holder's home state	Accepts NAUPA format files	Property types accepted for exchange				COMMENTS
				Accounts representing cash	Stocks and bonds	Mutual Funds	Safe-keeping
MO	Yes, incidental property only and only for states with which MO has reciprocity	Yes, incidental property only and only to states with which MO has reciprocity	✓	✓	✓	✓	Only upon request
MT	Yes, without limitation. However, holders are strongly encouraged to report to the correct state."	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓
NE	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓
NV	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
NH	Yes, but only from in-state holders	Yes, as long a that state reciprocates or exchanges with NH	✓	✓
NJ	STATE DID NOT PROVIDE INFORMATION
NM	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓	✓
NY	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
NC	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	State should contact NC first	State should contact NC first		Prefer that stocks, bonds, and mutual funds are converted to cash after being held 3 years - will accept shares if re-registered correctly
ND	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓
OH	No, however, property accepted inadvertently will be forwarded to the state to which it belongs.	STATE DID NOT RESPOND	✓	✓
OK	Yes, incidental reporting is encouraged but the number of properties is not limited	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓

	State accepts property with last known address in another state	State allows out-of state holders to remit property to holder's home state	Accepts NAUPA format files	Property types accepted for exchange				COMMENTS
				Accounts representing cash	Stocks and bonds	Mutual Funds	Safe-keeping
OR	Yes, without limitation. However holders with larger sums are encouraged to report to the state of last known address.	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓	✓	✓
PA	Yes, without limitation	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
PR	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
RI	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓	✓	✓
SC	Yes, incidental property only from SC holders and only for states that exchange with SC	Yes, incidental property only to states that exchange with SC	✓	✓			Holdes can only report incidental SC property to another state and only to a state which exchanges on a timely basis with SC.
SD	Yes, without limitation	Yes, without limitation	✓
TN	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓			Holdes can only report incidental TN property to another state and only to a state which exchanges on a timely basis with TN. Securities are liquidated 8 months after the property has been advertised
TX	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
UT	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓	✓	✓
VT	Yes, except for safe deposit boxes	Yes, without limitation	✓	✓
VA	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓			Only cash properties should be involved in the reciprocal process
WA	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only and only to states that WA has an agreement with or states which voluntarily exchange property with WA.	✓	✓	✓	✓
WV	Yes, incidental property only	Yes, incidental property only	✓	✓
WI	Yes, without limitation	Yes, per reciprocal agreements with other states	✓	✓

	State accepts property with last known address in another state	State allows out-of state holders to remit property to holder's home state	Accepts NAUPA format files	Property types accepted for exchange				COMMENTS
				Accounts representing cash	Stocks and bonds	Mutual Funds	Safe-keeping
WY	Yes, however holder is contacted to verify inadvertently sent. If holder continues to send property it is returned	No	✓	✓	✓	✓		